

International Conference
On

Enabling Development of North East India through Linkages with South and South East Asia

October 25 - 26, 2017

Organised by

About the Conference:

The North-East of India acts as the bridge between two sub-regions; namely South Asia and South-East Asia. The North East region of India is the one closest to this prosperous neighbourhood in Asia. As the on-going effort of conducting trade pacts with neighbouring countries proceeds, the strategic geographical location of North East India as “Gateway to South East Asia” assumes even greater relevance. The conference will revolve around some key issues in development of North East India especially with regard to the challenges and prospects of an outward looking development policy.

In light of the conference theme, participants are encouraged to propose papers examining the past and considering the future prospects of economic development of North East India especially through India’s relations with its neighbouring countries and other international institutions.
